HOOTERS

I HAVE BLISTERS ON MY HANDS
FROM THE BROOM.

TAKE THE CAR,
NEXT TIME!

I was at the post office,
when I see a blonde woman
Shouting into an envelope.
I asked, "What are you doing?"
The blonde replied,
"Sending a voice mail".

DON'T LEAVE ANY BEER OUT.
IT'LL ATTRACT HUMANS.

No Kidding!
I'm a
Cat Person too!

I'D LIKE A WHISKY AND.....COKE

WHY THE BIG PAUSE?

I DON'T KNOW. I WAS JUST BORN WITH THEM

I WILL NEVER GET STUCK IN THAT TREE AGAIN!

HEY, MAN! I JUST STABBED A THUMB IN A SEWING INCIDENT, AND I NEED TO LAY LOW FOR A WHILE! CAN YOU HELP ME OUT?

SURE! I KNOW OF A HAYSTACK ON THE EDGE OF TOWN WHERE YOU'LL BE SAFE TILL THE HEAT DIES DOWN!
